

Katie McNally and Conor Hearn House Concert!

Friday, July 8th, 7:00pm, Woodway, WA

Katie McNally grew up playing Scottish and Cape Breton music in Boston, Massachusetts. A member of the cross-genre fiddle supergroup, Childsplay, Katie has also toured with Karan Casey, John Whelan, Galician bagpiper Carlos Núñez, and performs regularly in her own projects, Fàrsan and the Katie McNally Trio. Her 2020 release, Now More Than Ever, was hailed as “Brisk and inventive...taking no prisoners” by The Scotsman. In addition to her busy touring schedule, she is a devoted educator who teaches regularly at fiddle camps and gives private lessons at her home in Portland, ME.

Conor Hearn is a stylistically diverse guitar player and instructor who specializes in accompaniment of traditional Irish and Scottish fiddle playing. Hailing from the Irish music communities of Washington D.C. and Maryland, Conor grew up playing fiddle and guitar in the traditional Irish music sessions. While studying to attain his B.A in English Literature with a minor in Music from Tufts University, Conor started working as a professional guitar player by lending his innovative rhythmic skills to the panoply of groups and projects that are taking shape in the Boston area folk music scene. Conor currently makes his home in Medford, MA where he performs and teaches regularly.
